

Belmont Publications - Director's Statement

[Accountancy Period sep 2015 to sep 2016]

Accounts have been filed with HMRC during december 2016, as required. All accounts with HMRC and with Companies House are up to date.

During the period, the second edition of 'The Patience of Job' completed the book. This has been the largest poetry project for Belmont and the most significant. The Book of Job has been much neglected, partly because the English translation of the Common Version is obscure in many places and has long required improvement. Overdue veneration of the Authorised Version has - so far - prevented this.

Now, the entirety of the discourses in Job are available in a translation which has taken account of the best available translations of the original Hebrew, of the Latin Vulgate and of the Greek Septuagint. And is also available - for the first time in the English language - as a poetic form, as was the original book when written in Hebrew.

Letters written during the first half of 2016 have been published as 'The Gates of Pearl' and letters during the second half have just been compiled into 'The Everlasting Gospel'. The second is a companion to the first and follows on from it.

Together with exposition on the main topics are many contemporary comments and the exposing of a number of issues which must be faced in these last times in which we now live.
